SACRED RUNNING OXEN.

They Are the Greatest Curiosities Among Ceylon's Domesticated Animals.

One of the greatest curiosities among the domesticated animals of Ceylon is a breed of cattle known to the zoologists as the "sacred running oxen." They are the dwarfs of the whole ox family, the largest specimens of the species never exceeding 30 inches, or 2½ feet in height. One sent to the Marquis of Canterbury in the year 1891, and which is still living and believed to be somewhere near 10 years of age, is only 22 inches high and weighs but 109½ pounds. In Ceylon they are used for making quick trips across the country with express matter and other light loads, and it is said that four of them can pull a driver of a two wheeled cart and a 200 pound load of miscellaneous matter 60 to 70 miles a day. They keep up a constant swishing tick or rattle and day and night without either food or water. No one knows anything concerning the origin of this peculiar breed of miniature cattle. They have been known on the island of Ceylon and in other Buddhist countries for more than a thousand years. One story told to account for their origin is to the effect that they were originally cattle of the ordinary height and bulk; that a Buddhist priest was once imprisoned in a stone building, one-half of which was used for a cattle stable. During the night he managed to dislodge one of the stones in his prison wall. The stone in question was exactly 2½ feet square. It was almost daylight when this apostle of Buddha felt the air rush through the opening he had made and realized that he was all but free. He knew that he would be unable to get out of the enemy's country on foot, so he prayed that he might be provided with a beast of burden that would safely carry him to the homes of the followers of Buddha. No sooner had he done this than one of the large oxen which had been quietly feeding in a stall at his side walked leisurely to the 30 inch square opening and miraculously passed through it. The priest followed and mounted the now sacredly dwarfed beast and was soon safe in his own country. Since that time, so the story goes, there has been a breed of "sacred running oxen" in Ceylon, which never grow too tall to pass through an opening the size of that made in the prison wall by Buddha's representative on the night when he miraculously escaped on the back of the first of the famous dwarfed oxen.—St. Louis Republic.

Recollections of Bismarck's Wartime.

In the columns of The Kreuzzeitung Herr Andrac, a well known Conservative politician and friend of Prince Bismarck, gives some interesting recollections of the period of the war of 1870. He says: "Bismarck read on the 9th of July the speech delivered by the Duke of Gramont on the 6th. He was at dinner and handed the newspaper to his wife, with the words: 'The Duke of Gramont must have soon got tired of his office. I shall, of course, have to ask for his resignation.' Later in the evening, while walking in the park at Vauxin and thinking of the matter, the idea suddenly came to him, 'Napoleon wants war, and Gramont's speech was dictated by him.' 'He went to his room, his first thought being to telegraph to the king, at Ems, as follows, 'It would be best to mobilize at once, declare war and attack before France is prepared.' His nerves were strong to the highest tension and he passed a sleepless night. Lying awake, thinking, there crossed his mind the text, 'Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God.' 'So that won't do,' he said to himself. Then all the political consequences of his contemplated action became clear to him, and he ended by casting the first message aside and telegraphing to King William simply not to pledge himself to anything with Benedetti, who, if he became pressing, was to be told, 'My minister of foreign affairs is at Vauxin.'—London News.

A Triumph of Elementary Education.

The following little incident happened in a London suburb: A bootmaker's apprentice, a lad of about 14, delivered a pair of boots at a tradesman's house. The tradesman's wife, accustomed to orderly business ways, asked the lad, after handing him the money for the boots, to receipt the bill. At this request the lad showed the greatest confusion, so that the woman, to reassure him, said, 'Just receipt it, as a matter of business.' Whereupon he wrote laboriously something on the paper. In the evening, when the tradesman examined the papers on the spike, he came upon a bootmaker's bill, at the foot of which was written in large letters in a schoolboy hand, 'As a matter of business.' It was the youthful apprentice's literal interpretation of the demand for a receipt as a matter of business.—Westminster Review.

Art thou in misery, brother? Then I pray be comforted. Thy grief shall pass away. Art thou elated? Ah, be not too gay. Temper thy joy. This, too, shall pass away.—Paul H. Hayne.

Golden Medical DISCOVERY

Cures Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of Consumption, in all its Earlier Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power, over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps.

Senator John P. Jones is strongly of the opinion that there will be a disastrious Silver party in the campaign next year, and that it will win. The organization of that party will probably be effected on a national scale at the Chicago conference, which is to be held about the Christmas holidays. The executive committee appointed at the Memphis convention is now preparing a call for the Chicago conference.

George P. Keeney, secretary of the California branch of the American Bimetallic League, has had several conferences with Senator Jones in San Francisco, and the Senator expressed himself as follows on the outcome of the elections:

"I think that the elections just held have demonstrated beyond the possibility of any doubt whatever that the issue in the campaign of 1896 will be flatly between the champions of gold and silver; that finance, and not tariff, is to be the only question, and that it can no longer be settled within party lines."

"The gold and silver men knifed each other in these elections, regardless of party. It is an object lesson to silver men all over the nation. If the battle between the metals be not forced now on a straight issue and along unmistakable lines, the gold brokers of London and New York will dominate the Government of the country for the next four years also, whichever of the two parties wins."

"The best thing for the silver men to do is to get together at Chicago and outline a plan of organization for a completely separate and independent party. The people have been pretty well educated, and they know quite well what free and unlimited coinage of silver means to their business interests. In my opinion a distinctively silver party could win."

During the summer just ended several tests were made by voting and otherwise of the relative strength of the silver and gold men in the West and South, and when the direct issue was presented the majority was invariably for silver. In the recent elections the choice was simply between Republican and Democratic gold men. In Kentucky and some of the other States the administration influence was on the side of the Republicans, and they won. In Mississippi, where the Democrats declared for free coinage and against Cleveland's financial policy, they were victorious. In Nebraska the silver vote was divided between the Populists and the silver Democrats, and many who favored free coinage did not vote at all.

With a clear and emphatic silver platform, and an avowed free coinage candidate for President, one upon whom silver men of all parties could unite, there would be no reasonable doubt of success in 1896. Of course, there are men who would object to any platform that is not weighted with issues, for the purpose of creating dissensions among those who consider the financial question the paramount issue, but fortunately they are not numerous, and they would have a small following in a Presidential campaign in which the issue was sharply defined between the silver and gold men.

TO PROSECUTE SOLDIERS.

At the time of the strike a year ago last July Charles Stewart, a visitor in Sacramento and in no way connected with the strike, was shot down in the streets of that city by United States soldiers. Now Alva Udell, a lawyer, is securing out warrants for the arrest of the soldiers. He states that early last September he addressed a letter to the District Attorney of Sacramento county which that official has not yet answered. In that letter he stated the proposition that the regulars had no authority, and that in killing Stewart they acted merely as civilians taking the law into their own hands. He wanted the District Attorney to take such action as would cause the arrest of those engaged in the crime, and as the District Attorney did not do anything he would attend to it himself. The persons whom he will charge with murder are Captain B. K. Roberts of the Fifth United States Artillery and sub-officers and privates John Smith, Charles Morrison, Gustave Kline, William Hjelmberg and others whose names he does not know.

Udell, who is a Los Angeles attorney, will not say who he is acting for. He claims that the soldiers were not performing their duty at the time of the killing and that no man, not even the President, has constitutional power to use the regular army or the naval forces for the purposes in which they were engaged at Sacramento, but the Constitution gives to Congress the authority to call out the militia to execute the laws of the country.

If Udell succeeds in getting warrants for the arrest of the soldiers and they are brought to trial, it may be shown by the Courts where the rights of citizens end in controversies between railroad companies and their employees.

PATRIOTIC SENTIMENTS.

A regiment of Illinois militia with Governor Altgeld and staff attended the Atlanta Exposition this week. In response to an address of welcome, Governor Altgeld, who is pictured by the corporation tools as an anarchist, used the following patriotic language: "We feel that the time has come when rivers should no longer be the dividing lines between civilization, or between different people in this country; that whether a man stands on the north bank or the south bank of the Ohio he should be surounded by the same institutions, the same civilization, the same spirit; that not only should the citizens of this entire Republic stand under one flag, but they should be actuated by the same motives and the same high aim and struggle toward the same end."

ALMOST ASPHYXIATED.

Durrant's Parents Narrowly Escape Death.

The parents of Theodore Durrant, the murderer of Blanche Lamont, were nearer death than their son a few nights ago. A young lady, a visitor at the house and unfamiliar with the electric gas-lighting attachment, pressed the electric button to light the gas. She pressed hard enough to turn on the gas, but not to light it, and Mr. and Mrs. Durrant, who had retired for the night were nearly overcome, when Mrs. Durrant managed to arouse her husband and open the window of the room.

A Good One on Bob Parry.

Griff Parry received a letter from his brother Robert, yesterday. Bob is getting along splendidly and has already gained nine pounds. His brothers and sisters are taking the best of care of him and he feels greatly encouraged. He writes that he attended church at a neighboring town to his home one evening and after the services were over the minister approached him and mistook him for one of Robert's brothers, who is a minister. After the introduction Bob was invited to fill the pulpit on the next Sunday. He was somewhat staggered, but finally replied that he had been full once or twice, but had never had a very extended experience in a pulpit but if the minister had any hay to sell or cattle to ship, he would go him some on a trade and meet him half way. It was the minister's turn now to be frustrated, but matters were soon explained and Bob was excused from delivering the sermon.

Condemned Murderer Released.

PURVIS, (Miss.), Nov. 12.—A mob broke into the jail here and released Will Purvis, who is under sentence of death for murder. Purvis belonged to a band of white cappers and shot a man who resisted punishment. He was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged. He was placed on the scaffold with a rope around his neck, but when the trap sprung the rope broke and he is uninjured. People regarded this as a miracle and wanted him released. He was given a new trial and again convicted. The people then took the matter into their own hands and released him.

Valuable Records Burned.

DETROIT, Nov. 12.—Ex-Senator Thos. W. Palmer's residence burned this morning and a large quantity of valuable bric-a-brac and paintings and furniture were destroyed. They included a complete World's Fair record, the only one in existence, and scores of tokens collected during the Senator's residence in Washington and Spain. The insurance aggregates $35,000.

SANDUSKY, O., November 12.—As a fleet of American fishing boats were engaged in lifting nets near North Bar Island yesterday, the Canadian cruiser Petrel appeared. Two boats of two men each were taken aboard the Petrel and over two miles of nets were confiscated. The crews of the boats that escaped admit that they were fishing in Canadian waters.

The groom is the youngest son of the late General Lord Alfred Paget, a personal aid-de-camp to the Queen, and grandson of the first Marquis of Anglesea.

Outrage on Mormon Elders.

Summer resort Burned.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The Lawrence Beach Hotel, one of the largest summer resorts on Long Island, was destroyed by fire to-day, with its contents. The loss, it is thought, will not fall short of $200,000, and it was insured for less than half its value.

A GOOD HAUL BY THIEVES.

A WELLS-FARGO OFFICE ROBBED IN COLORADO.

The Agent Saves a Large Sum of Money by His Prompt Action.

COLORADO SPRINGS, November 12.—Great excitement prevailed last night over the announcement that Wells-Fargo's office in this city had been entered by masked men, and the agent compelled to open the safe.

George Krout, the agent, went onto the platform after the departure of a train to straighten up his trucks, and as he returned to his office was met at the door by two masked men with drawn revolvers. A package containing $20,000 for the First National Bank at this place had just been received, and the robbers demanded it.

Krout opened the safe, and remarked as he handed the coin out that there was only the one package there, and immediately slammed the door and threw on the combination. There was another package of $35,000 in the safe, but the robbers did not look any further. They ordered Krout to undress and go to bed, which he did. The men then left, and soon afterward Krout gave the alarm.

In a short time a posse was scouring the country with bloodhounds, and it is thought the robbers will be captured.

Coal Oil Stove Exploded.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 11.—Mrs. Eliza Holdredge of 1817 Union street was burned to death this morning. Mrs. Holdredge, who is 90 years old, was seen by a neighbor about 9 o'clock. A short time after the old woman lighted a coal oil stove, and it is supposed the stove exploded. When found she was lying dead on the floor of the kitchen, her clothes burned off, and the room in flames.

Women on the Bicycle.

What a pretty thing a woman on a bicycle is! Her pose is good. She sits erect and rides easily, gracefully. Most men stoop while riding. Women sit erect. Men always seem to be on business bent and in a hurry. Women appear to ride for pleasure and in no hurry. Men have the bicycle face, arising, it is said, from the care they have to bestow to avoid accident. Women have the air of easy indifference, unconsciousness of risk. They ride as the true goddess walked.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

A Good Auctioneer.

"I'm going now. Yes, I'm going," murmured Steigher. "What an excellent auctioneer you'd make," said the heartless but tired Miss Nycegril.—Boston Courier.

The Opening Statement of the Prosecution—Diagrams and Evidence.

[Correspondence of the JOURNAL.]

CARSON CITY, Nov. 12, 1895.

The United States District Court met this morning at 10 o'clock, Judge Hawley presiding. The court announced that, after due consultation with the attorneys, it was concluded to excuse all jurors, outside of the twelve impaneled, until a week from next Thursday at 10:30.

General Clarke made an opening statement of the case on the part of the prosecution. He recited the three counts in the indictment against the defendant, in each of which he is charged with stealing $23,000 while he was employed in the melting and refining department of the mint, converting the same to his own use. In the three counts of the indictment but one crime was committed, but all three are combined in one to show the criminal act.

A large diagram representing the interior of the refinery, press room, cupel room and connecting arrangements of the Mint, specially and elaborately prepared for the occasion by A. J. Chalmers and F. L. Gould, was displayed on the wall convenient to the jury, and from it Clarke proceeded to carefully describe to the jury the regular process or routine of receiving and passing the bullion through the various departments until it gets out or is interred in the vaults.

Heny was employed as coalman in 1889, and in 1890 was helper in the refinery. On December 13, 1891 he was promoted to the position of silver disassembler, acting as foreman of that department till June 13, 1893. He had the keys, full access, plenty of opportunity to steal, conceal and walk out without detection. The present melter and refiner (Harris) discovered a deficiency in the gold product. Information was sent to Washington, and the result was the discovery by Inspector Mason of a shortage amounting to over $75,000.

This loss occurred during the time Heny was employed in the refinery, and before the 30th day of June, the last month of his service. On the 13th of August, 1893, Heny was in Reno, and arranged with the Reno reduction works to melt into bars some bullion, requesting that nothing be said about it to any one, as he and others leasing and working a mine in Silver City, from which this bullion was taken, did not want the owners of the mine to know this for fear they would lose the lease. The bullion, was in two sacks, and granulated like brown sugar, like the gold bullion that comes out of the "sweating" tank of the Mint. He said they need not treat it for silver, as he knew it was 980 to 990 fine, and it amounted to over $21,000 in gold.

After the shortage discovery and its publication in the newspapers Heny, who was in San Francisco, fled to parts unknown. Clarke concluded his statement by asserting that there is no mine in Nevada, or the world, that will produce bullion 980 or 990 fine.

F. L. Gould testified that the diagram of the Mint interior was made by Mr. Chalmers and himself.

At 12:15 recess was taken till 1:30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the desire of the defense the jury, under the direction and guidance of Mr. Chalmers, who was sworn in for the purpose, proceeded to the Mint, and were shown all through the melting and refining and other departments in question, returning at 2:15.

W. C. Noteware, chief clerk of the Mint, testified descriptively relative to the various departments of the Mint, their control, occupancy and official duties, also describing in detail the various processes. The deposit melting room is next to the cashier's office.

G. W. Likens, helper in the melting and refining department, described his duties and the general duties of the department, details of occupancy, employment, regulations, etc. He pointed out on the diagram the various appliances used, the furnaces and tanks, and described the successive processes critically and at elaborate length, his testimony constituting quite an interesting lecture on metallurgical chemistry.

It being now 4:15, the Court adjourned till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house, and his family have always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable.

G. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best Cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's, Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of October, 1895.

To the Honorable Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN:—I herewith respectfully submit my report for the school month ending November 1, 1895:

ATTENDANCE.

The increase in school population as shown by the last school census, has not manifested itself thus far in the attendance this year. The enrollment for the past month was 563, as against 568 for October, 1894. An increase of twenty or more at the Training School, some increase in the Parochial School, and the attendance of many pupils about six years of age at the Kindergarten may explain the situation in part at least.

At the beginning of the present school year in conformity with the advice and consent of your honorable body, the course of study in the Reno High School was made to include, in addition to other features, all the work outlined for the Academic or Preparatory Department of the University. Pupils now have a choice of two courses in the High School, in one of which two years of Latin is a requirement, and in the other, two years in French.

English History, Latin and French are comparatively new studies in our High School, having been introduced in the last three years. The improved equipment for pupils entering the High School has enabled us to give pupils the benefit of instruction in these culture branches without materially affecting the branches that for years constituted the Nevada High School curriculum. We are on the eve of a new departure for the High Schools of Nevada, and with the right kind of encouragement from the University, they can in a very few years, be made as efficient as the high schools of older and more populous States.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of October, 1895.

To the Honorable Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN:—I herewith respectfully submit my report for the school month ending November 1, 1895:

ATTENDANCE.

The increase in school population as shown by the last school census, has not manifested itself thus far in the attendance this year. The enrollment for the past month was 563, as against 568 for October, 1894. An increase of twenty or more at the Training School, some increase in the Parochial School, and the attendance of many pupils about six years of age at the Kindergarten may explain the situation in part at least.

At the beginning of the present school year in conformity with the advice and consent of your honorable body, the course of study in the Reno High School was made to include, in addition to other features, all the work outlined for the Academic or Preparatory Department of the University. Pupils now have a choice of two courses in the High School, in one of which two years of Latin is a requirement, and in the other, two years in French.

English History, Latin and French are comparatively new studies in our High School, having been introduced in the last three years. The improved equipment for pupils entering the High School has enabled us to give pupils the benefit of instruction in these culture branches without materially affecting the branches that for years constituted the Nevada High School curriculum. We are on the eve of a new departure for the High Schools of Nevada, and with the right kind of encouragement from the University, they can in a very few years, be made as efficient as the high schools of older and more populous States.
